Mother, I am telling you the truth. I learned my lesson. If I tell a lie I get punished. I remember what happened when I didn't tell you the truth. And you found out about it. You gave me no apple pie. And no ice cream for an entire week. That was terrible. I am telling you the truth now. About what happened. I know you won't believe it. I don't blame you. It was so very strange. I can hardly believe it happened to me. But it did.

I admit that I did not listen to you. I disobeyed you. That is how it all started. You told me to go walking only around the house. Not to go down the hill to the beach. I walked to the top of the hill. And I saw Dave and Frank on the beach. They waved to me to come down.

"Look what we found," shouted Frank. "Hurry down. Now we can play that we are pirates."

Mother, I always wanted to be a pirate. To have my own boat. To capture other boats. And have a lot of gold. Also diamonds. I only wanted to give them to you. So I went down the hill to the beach. I wanted to know what Frank and Dave found. And they showed it to me.

"It's a raft," explained Dave. "We make a flag. Of a skull and crossbones. That means we are pirates. We go and sail away. My mother scolded me. I want to run away. She will be sorry. When I capture a big warship then she will be proud of me."

So I took off my shoes and stockings. Then I got onto the raft. It was wonderful. Now I had my own boat. Then Dave said to me something. I think he said,

"Shall I give the raft a push, Danny?"

I am not sure he said it. But I know I told him yes. So that is how the raft left the beach. With me on it. Then it sort of got cloudy and misty. I could hardly see what was around me. I couldn't see the beach. I couldn't even see Dave and Frank. I was scared. But I didn't cry. If I cried that meant I was like a baby. If I didn't cry it meant I was like a man. I was scared. I felt funny inside of me.

When it was clear again, all I could see was water. Water, water, all around me. I even felt thirsty. But I knew you should not drink salt water. It makes you thirsty. Then you want to drink more water. Something was happening to my raft. I saw two cords split. Then I got scared. I wanted to get home. I knew that on Saturday Marsha had a birthday party. I wanted to go to it. Then I saw the Dolphin.

He swam right up to the raft. I looked at him. He looked at me. He spoke to me in Dolphin language. I knew just what he meant.

"Want a ride on my back? I will take you home. The raft is breaking up."

So I told him yes. A ride on a real Dolphin! He came next to the raft. And just in time I got onto his back. I saw my raft break up. I felt bad about it. No chance to be a pirate. But this was better than being a pirate. A ride on a Dolphin! It wasn't hard to hold onto him. It was a lot of fun. I think that every boy should have his own Dolphin. I guess that means he has to live where there is a beach. So what? There would be a lot of other boys here. We need more boys, mother. We got to have them in order to have a football team. You want me to tell you what else happened?

You told me that Dave and Frank ran home. Then Dave's mother called you on the phone. Told you I was lost at sea. I wasn't lost at all. I was on my Dolphin. I think I saw a plane overhead. Then it got cloudy again. The Dolphin talked to me. I understood him. Said he would take me to the fishing pier. Then I could climb from his back to the pier. That is just what he did. Then I walked home. Sorry I lost my shoes and stockings.

Mother, you believe me. I didn't make it up. The phone is ringing. I will wait till you answer it. Gee you are on a long time. Who was it, mother? What did they say? It was the Coast Guard. And they said they saw a little boy riding on a Dolphin. That was me! And the Dolphin is at the pier. Come, mother. What are we waiting for? Let's go to the pier and get my Dolphin. You say that there are reporters waiting to see me. We will go as soon as you get fixed up. Thanks, mother. Now I know you believe me.
